Invitation to Informing Policy through Research and Evidence: Learning's from the Prevention and Early Intervention Initiative and Growing Up in Ireland – A Roundtable Discussion

Date: Monday 30th September 2013 Time: 9.00am-1.30pm

Venue: Economic and Social Research Institute, Whitaker Square, Sir John Rogerson's Quay, Dublin 2

Growing Up In Ireland and the Centre for Effective Services is inviting a select group of decision makers to a roundtable discussion on 30th September 2013 to discuss the evidence and data emerging from both the Growing up In Ireland study and the Prevention and Early Intervention Initiative (PEII).

The purpose of this specialized event is to consider the collective data from these two sources, specifically on what is known about parenting and children's learning. It will be opened by Minister Frances Fitzgerald, Minister for Children and Youth Affairs and aims to enhance and develop the dialogue between research output and practice with a view to influencing policy as well as the design and delivery of child and family services in Ireland. By bringing researchers, policy makers and practitioners together, the discussion will allow attendees to consider the implications of this collective learning in the context of future policy and service developments. Held under Chatham House Rules, the Roundtable will consist of a mix of plenary contributions, panel and facilitated discussion.
